5:1 Chairman's opening remarks:

Welcoming the Minister of Finance and Members of the Committee, the Chairman informed the Minister that for obvious reasons, the Committee has been under intense pressure for an assurance as to when MPs gratuity would be paid.

In his response after a lengthy deliberation, the Minister said that such payments have to go through a number of stages. Documents relating to the Parliamentary gratuity payments, he said, were currently with the Auditor-General for verification. When that is completed, he went on, executive clearance would have to be obtained and funds sought before payment could be made by the Accountant-General.

Without giving any timeline, the Minister assured the Committee that he was well aware that Parliament was closing on the 25th September 2012 and that he was committed enough to make the payments within the shortest possible time. As soon as the Auditor-General has completed the verification, he said, he would fast-track the remaining processes to make an early payment of the MPs gratuity.

Reacting to suggestions for a 50% bank loan/ advance on the gratuity, the Minister said that it could be arranged.
